

STRAW POLLS SHOW LEANING TO DEMOCRATS

Votes Disclose Shift of Republican Votes To Democratic Side.

BETS NOT TAKEN

White Given Neat Margin By Cincinnati Advance Dope.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 1.—The consensus of opinion among well informed Republicans in the capital and elsewhere in the state seems to be that Ohio will go Democratic next Tuesday. Since the Democrats offer no dissent from this view, the conclusion may be accepted as being as nearly unanimous as any pre-election judgment can be.

Testimony upon which observers of both parties are basing forecasts of a Democratic sweep includes:

1.—Newspaper straw votes showing large Democratic majorities and wholesale shifting to the Democratic side by those who voted the Republican ticket two years ago.

2.—Deductions of keen Ohio newspaper scouts who have toured the state, sounded public sentiment, analyzed trends. These include Herbert R. Mengert, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, William C. Howells, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and George Smallwood, of the Columbus Dispatch. Avoiding partisanship and personal convictions in their reports, such men have written frankly of conditions that warrant Democratic optimism and justify opposition lament.

REPORTS ACTIVE

3.—The findings of out-of-town journalists who have flocked from distant cities to ascertain what Ohio is up to politically. Because an overturn of Ohio's verdict of 1928 would rock the Hoover administration, and because the eighteenth amendment figures rather importantly in the senatorial race, eyes of the nation's editors are on the state. And the correspondents they have sent here to record their impressions have corroborated the views of the home grown political writers. Mr. Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee and a pain in the neck to Dr. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee.

4.—Ill-concealed alarm in Republican organization ranks. While outwardly professing confidence, directors of the G. O. P. defensive operations privately have voiced despair, failed to hide their scowls under brave smiles.

5.—Desertion of the Republican cause by partisan newspapers and wholehearted support of Democratic aspirations by independent newspapers of great influence.

6.—The betting, with plenty of White-Bulky money begging vainly for takers.

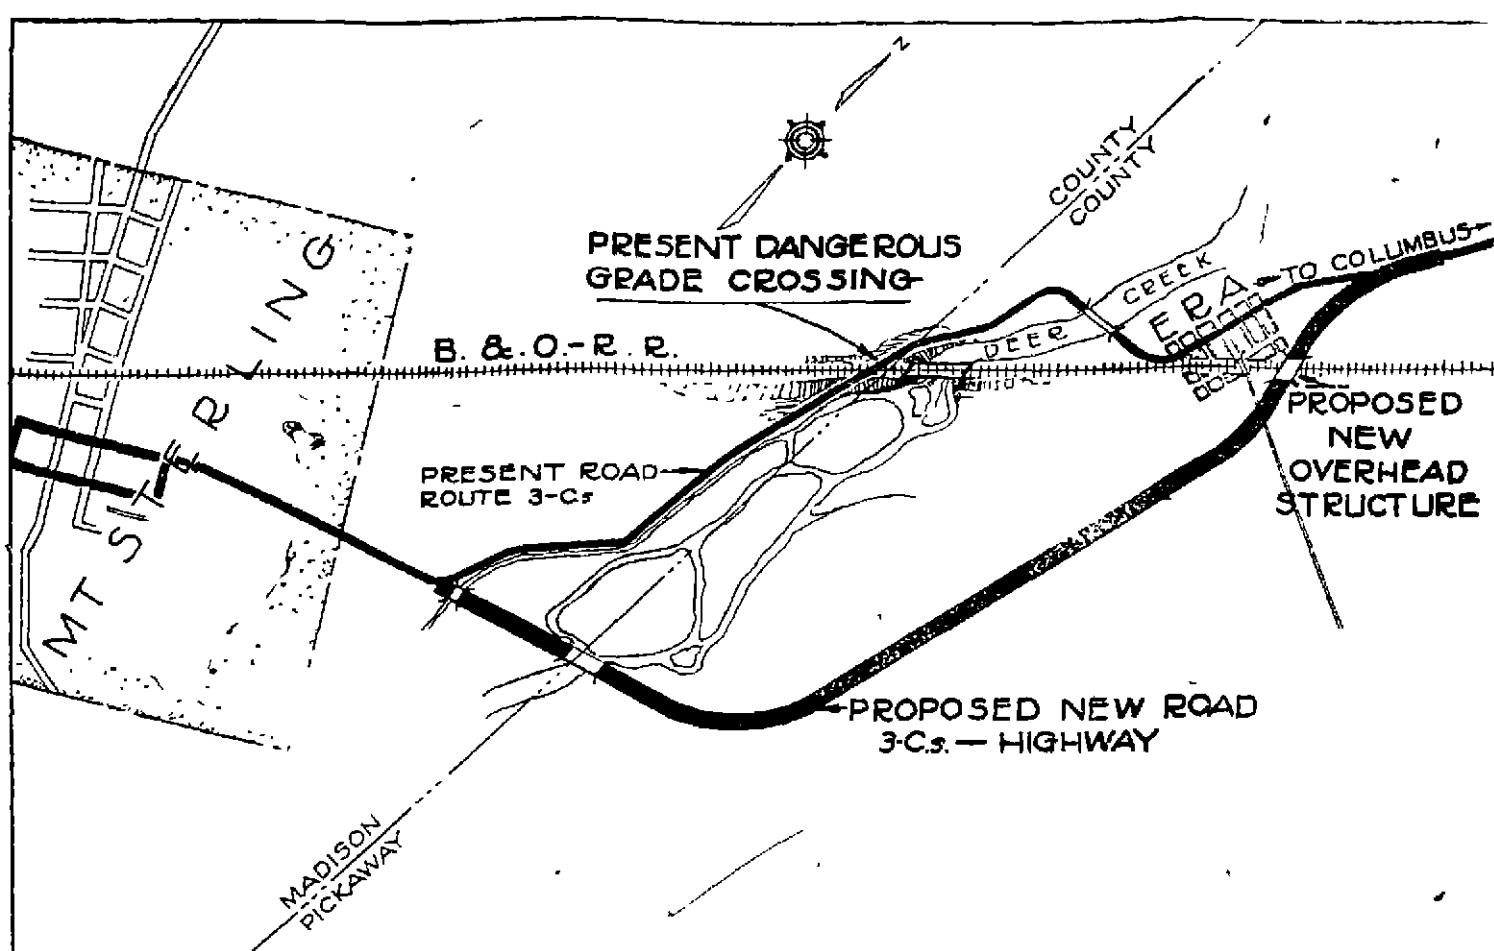

The newspaper straw ballots are showing a more pronounced trend toward reversal of sentiment than ever has been noted in the history of such devices by veteran students of politics. In the Columbus Dispatch, Cincinnati Enquirer, Columbus Citizen, Cleveland Press, Cincinnati Post, Toledo News Bee, Cleveland Plain Dealer and Youngstown Telegram, all canvassing editors independently, the signs point convincingly to an overwhelming defection of Republican voters and staggering majorities for Democratic candidates.

CINCI FOR WHITE?

The lead of George White, Democratic nominee for the governorship, in Cincinnati and Hamilton counties indicates inevitable loss of his home town and county by Governor Cooper. The Enquirer and Dispatch polls, the only ones on a state wide basis, reflect a similar sweep toward White in the state as a whole. In spots hitherto unalterably committed to Republican candidates, G. O. P. majorities have shrunk or have vanished.

Similarly the test votes reveal margins for Robert J. Bulkeley, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, that point to disaster for his opponent, Roscoe C. McCulloch. Analyzing the figures, diagnosing the symptoms, experts agreed that George White and his fellow candidates have convinced the voters that the present administration has increased expenditures by millions of dollars needlessly, has failed to fulfill its promises, has shown ineptitude in the handling of major state problems and has increased taxes by millions of dollars without justification. Likewise the experts agreed that Bulkeley has captured the majority of the electorate with his advocacy of a new deal in the matter of bringing about temperance and with his attack upon his opponent's support of the Grubbs tariff and the confirmation of Judge John J. Parker as a U. S. supreme court appointee.

Dangerous Crossing At Era Will Be Eliminated

TAXI DRIVER SHOOTS MAN, WOMAN, SELF

TWO ARE DEAD

Family Quarrel Results In Murder of Family.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1.—After fatally shooting his alleged paramour and her estranged husband while Lee Yarnetto, 31, a taxi driver, lay near death in Huron Road hospital today from a self-inflicted bullet, according to police.

The victims of the shooting are: Alex Yarnetto, 33, and his wife, Carrie, 27.

Cochia shot Yarnetto when the latter struck him on the head with a bottle, police said. He then turned the gun on Mrs. Yarnetto, and after leaving the scene of the shooting, evidently to reload his revolver, he returned and fired one shot into his breast. The man and his wife died instantly.

FAMILY QUARREL

Mrs. Yarnetto, who had started divorce proceedings against her husband, began quarrelling with him in her apartment which is located in a building adjoining the house where Cochia roomed. A few minutes after Yarnetto had gone into the apartment, Cochia entered the building and stood in the hall outside the apartment door while the argument was in progress, police said.

The pair left the apartment on the request of neighbors who had objected to the noise, and went down to the front porch where they continued their argument. Cochia was seen to follow them.

According to witnesses, Yarnetto was seen to strike Cochia on the head with a bottle and Cochia drew his revolver and fired four shots into Yarnetto's stomach and chest. Mrs. Yarnetto turned and ran but was brought down with a single bullet fired by Cochia. Cochia went into his rooming house and returned a few minutes later.

When he came back to the porch, witnesses said, he lifted up the body of his alleged deadliest enemy, and after dropping it he turned the gun on himself.

Hospital attaches reported Cochia's condition as critical.

MOUNT STERLING MAN IS KILLED

Fred J. Young, 50, of Mt. Sterling, was instantly killed at 10 p. m. Friday at Pottsville and Pennsylvania railroad when he drove an automobile onto the tracks in front of a freight train. The site is near Columbus.

Young was waiting for an east-bound passenger train to pass the road which runs besides Port Columbus and after it had passed, he drove onto the tracks not knowing a freight train was coming from the east.

The license on the car was issued to Mildred Young, Mt. Sterling, police reported. The body was taken to the parlors of a Columbus firm.

Solution of one of the most difficult problems on any of the main roads of the State has finally been reached in the elimination of the dangerous railroad crossing on the 3 C's highway at Era near Mt. Sterling. The agreement arrived at by Director of Highways, Robert N. Waid, officials of Pickaway and Madison counties and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad provides for a relocation of the road, elimination of sharp curves and getting away from the many traffic hazards, according to the Central Division of The Ohio Good Roads Federation which has been cooperating with the Ohio Department of Highways in correcting the Era condition. The plan selected corrects all of the bad points of the present crossing and location and will cost approximately $80,000 less than to have eliminated the crossing at its present location. It is expected that this project will be offered for sale about the middle of November.

A thorough study of all angles of the problem was made by Harry D. Metcalf, division engineer of the department of highways, and various lines were run crossing the railway at different points and calculations were made as to the cost of various proposed locations. One project considered was a separation of grades about 1500 feet west of the present crossing. This plan would have meant a poorer alignment at greater cost, so was discarded. Another solution considered was a separation of grades at the present crossing. This would have entailed raising the highway south of the railroad tracks and bridge and would have cost a great deal more than the plan finally selected.

Investigation further showed that there are many trains per day on this line and the speed of trains at this place renders the crossing a very dangerous one, inasmuch as the crossing is at the foot of two descending grades on the railroad tracks.

Discussing this problem with officials of the Federation following agreement as to the location and details of the project on the part of officials, Mr. Metcalf stated:

"The present crossing is said by all motorists to be worst railway crossing on the 3 C's highway between Cleveland and Cincinnati. There are 1,500 vehicles per day passing over this crossing.

"The present grades of the highway are 8 per cent running right up to the track which in common language means that it is impossible to see a car approaching from the other side of the track until about 30 feet of it. This condition is further aggravated by the fact that the approaches and pavement on either side are narrow so that when two cars approach the tracks from opposite directions at the same time, they are frequently heading directly for each other when they reach a point where they can see.

"The heavy traffic on the 3 C's now passes directly in front of the Era school, making a dangerous condition for the children, which hazard the proposed improvement will eliminate on account of its new location.

"In the distance of two miles of the present highway there are eleven sharp curves, some of them almost right angled turns. The new highway replaces these by the use of three gradual curves of large radius. It also is located on higher ground, thereby eliminating the condition which exists on the section of road south of the B. & O. tracks which at flood times becomes impassable.

COLUMBUS MEN SCORE WORLEY

Charge Council Leader Betrays City by Helping Shadeville in Project.

Action of President of Columbus council Henry W. Worley and Councilman George F. Ketterer in going to Shadeville last week in the interest of the sewage disposal plant which Columbus is contemplating locating as near this county as the law allows, was condemned in a resolution passed Thursday by the Scioto Valley Protective Association.

The resolution said Worley and Ketterer helped advocate the institution of a referendum against moving the sewage plant site.

"This is the time for the city to make improvements and aid in relieving unemployment and bringing about business revival," the resolution stated.

Fred Denkwalter, president of the association, charged Worley and Ketterer with "forsaking the good old Democracy of the South side." He declared, "they journeyed south to foreign lands to arouse hostility against their own populace, fostering litigation against their own municipality."

Praise for the other civic associations of Columbus in joining in the fight for the removal of the plant to a new site south of Columbus was voiced by Denkwalter.

Floyd Green charged Worley and Ketterer with betraying their own city.

"Their trip to Shadeville last week was an absolute betrayal to go down and tell another community how to litigate against the city," Green said.

Removal of the sewage disposal plant is the first step to clean up the South side, Green pointed out.

Councilman Frank C. Karns, in addressing the meeting, declared that "there will be a referendum on the sewage disposal plant site" and urged the South side to support the two-mill levy so that it can go to other sections of the city and ask them to defeat the referendum on the location of the sewage disposal plant.

"We will stay on the firing line and fight any attempt to defeat removal of the disposal plant by a referendum vote," W. A. Rubrecht, president of the Columbus Council of Civic associations, asserted.

"When city officials do such things," Rubrecht said in referring to the Shadeville trip of Ketterer and Worley, "they are true to the constituents of the city who elected them and to their principles."

COMMERCIAL PT. WOMAN CLAIMED

Bureau services for Mrs. J. E. Thoms, aged 45, who was taken to the hospital Thursday from influenza at home near Commercial Point, will be held Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the South Bloomfield Methodist church. Burial will be in the Commercial Point cemetery by A. J. Holt, Commercial Point.

H. M'HENRY FOUND DEAD

Member of Old Circleville Family Dies Near Midnight Friday at Home.

Harry H. McHenry, 77, was found dead by his sister, Mrs. Charlotte Welch in his room at their home, 381 East Main-st., after midnight, Friday, Dr. D. V. Courtwright said he had been dead for several hours.

He was the only son of David and Margaret Bugger McHenry, natives of Plain City, Ohio. He was in the jewelry business with his father in this city for a number of years, in the room formerly occupied by the Circleville Herald and at one time operated a jewelry store, himself in Dresden, O.

He also assisted his father in the management of a small vineyard, across Hargus Creek, just north of the C. H. Smith Packing Co. They dealt in small fruit, grapes and strawberries, etc.

Besides his sister, Mrs. Welch, he was survived by another sister, Mrs. Sallie Hobart, Rayville, La., a niece, Mrs. Frances Hobart Green of Rayville, La., and a niece Miss Mary Welch, a teacher in the public schools of Caledonia, O., who had come to Columbus to attend the State Teachers' Meeting Friday and was spending the weekend at home.

Funeral arrangements in charge of Mader and Ebert have not been completed.

GRAND INSTALLS ELECTRIC SIGN

The Grand Theatre has purchased a large electric sign from the Sun Ray Sign Co. of Columbus and has it placed in operation on the corner of the Theatre building.

There are 148 small yellow and red bulbs on the travel border and 29 bulbs under the GRAND name that flashes showing the large name in white letters.

The sign gives the corner a nice appearance.

"What One Man Says"

PATRICK J. HURLEY
Secretary of War.
The American Red Cross occupies a unique position in the affairs of the world. In war it follows our soldiers to the front and ministers to their wants.

In time of disaster the Red Cross is first on the ground aiding suffering humanity. Fire sufferers in San Francisco, earthquake victims in Japan, and those whose earthly possessions were washed away by floods in the Mississippi Valley all attest the efficiency of that organization which knows no color, creed or boundary in aiding the stricken.

Such an organization, to carry on its necessary work, must have at its disposal ample and immediate funds. To secure these, it depends upon a large number of small contributions collected during the annual roll call.

I desire to avail myself of this opportunity to urge upon all patriotic citizens to answer the Red Cross roll call when the annual membership drive opens on Armistice Day.

DISSENSION TO WORRY VARGAS AS DICTATOR

Dispatches Censored But Reports Disclose Ill-Feeling In Ranks.

MILITIA ANGRY

Report Rio De Janeiro Suffers From Food Shortage.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 1.—While rigorously censored dispatches from Rio De Janeiro today told of the adulation being showered upon Dr. Getulio Vargas, provisional president of Brazil, following his arrival in the capital from the south, reports were current here that serious dissension within the ranks of the revolutionary leaders may endanger the peaceful progress of the new regime.

It was pointed out in well-informed circles here that there are wide differences of opinion among certain of the revolutionary leaders as to how the new government shall be constituted and that the military are likely to demand a stronger representation than Dr. Vargas was reported planning to give them.

FORM DICTATORSHIP

In an interview with newspapermen prior to the arrival of Dr. Vargas, General Juarez Tavora, youthful leader of the northern insurgents, declared that present plans call for formation of a civil dictatorship backed by the army and navy.

Information reaching here, however, indicates that among the revolutionary leaders who have flocked into the capital are a number of military firebrands, who it was said may seek to demand a military government under General Tavora in place of the projected civil regime of Dr. Vargas.

If this is the case, not only Vargas but Tavora also would have to use all the influence at their command to enforce complete allegiance to a civil regime.

It was regarded as significant that Dr. Vargas is rushing virtually all his troops, numbering between 30,000 and 50,000 men, in to the capital, although Rio De Janeiro was reported still to be suffering from a food shortage.

Immediately after the arrival of Dr. Vargas in the capital, a strenuous censorship was clapped down on all outgoing news dispatches.

WELL ENDANGERS PEACE OF CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 1.—An outlaw oil well out of control and hurling sixty thousand barrels of oil into the air daily at the city's edge continued to hold the state capital in danger of fire today.

Hardly a mile from the city's business district the No. 1 C. E. Stout oil well kept tossing out fountains of gas and crude oil while militiamen and city police and firemen maintained a close guard to prevent the oil-soaked buildings from catching fire.

The residents' district nearest the well was occupied mostly by negroes. They were ordered to vacate their homes by the military forces of Oklahoma National Guardsmen. Six schools in the district were closed today.

Law enforcement officials said they were barred from the well by the military forces and that their only touch off was by the military forces.

The well broke out in a violent eruption of oil and gas, and the military forces were ordered to vacate the area.

ARREST REDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Twenty-two reds were arrested in the week-end, including the same eating place where a group of disorderly reds and were remanded to prison, pending sentence.

Marine Ace Will Fly Plane to Nicaragua

Lieut. Christian Schilt, one of the most brilliant of the U. S. Marines flyers, will fly a new tri-motor Ford plane to Nicaragua to replace one already in use at the United States base there. The Marine ace was recently decorated by the Government in recognition of outstanding service in Nicaragua.

BLAME POLICE FOR CONDITION

Chicago Grand Jury Claims Police and Crime in City Go Hand In Hand.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Chief Justice John McGoorty of the criminal court today was in possession of a report drawn up by the October grand jury in which both the state's attorney's office and the police department are severely criticized and held responsible for crime conditions.

The jury's report stated that the scandal in which a list of gangsters scheduled for immediate arrest was found in the possession of a Capone accomplice "confirmed beyond a reasonable doubt the general belief that exists an alliance between some members of the police department and leaders of organized crime."

Referring to the state attorney's department the report charged that "too many minor cases are being given attention while the activities of those engaged in various forms of organized crime are being neglected if not actually protected."

LOCALS LOSE IN SINGING CONTEST

Carol Des, lyric soprano, of Dayton, and Hubert Koehritz, baritone, of Cincinnati, are winners of the Southern Ohio state competition in the Fourth National Radio Audition, according to an announcement made today by Ellis Snyder, chairman of Capital University, chairman of the group which arranged the contest.

In competition with the champions from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Northern Ohio, and Wisconsin, they will sing in Chicago in November for the honor of representing the Midwest District in National finals to be sung in New York on Sunday evening, December 14th during the Atwater Kent Hour.

Ellen Leest and Gerald Maron, from this city, took part in the southern Ohio finals.

PREDICT WILD ELECTION NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—An extra force of 150 men and 120 fire-fighting units will be used this year, police announced today, to combat the annual bonfire epidemic on election night. New York's election night will be marked by one of the most spectacular bonfire years in the city's history, police said.

NEW MARSHAL LEADS FIGHT ON GANGSTERS

Chicago Hopefully Awaits Report of Work of Newly Selected Leader.

JAMIE IS NAMED

Results Is Only Report To Be Made, Man States.

BY W. F. PETERSON.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Afflicted with an alliance between crime and politics, under the onus of paying tribute to a gigantic liquor syndicate and to labor racketeers, and burdened with a blood stained past, Chicago is hopefully awaiting results from a new field marshal in its war against the underworld.

The new commander-in-chief is Alexander Jamie, a law enforcement veteran, who today began a furlough from his post of division chief of special prohibition agents and became chief investigator for the "Secret Six," the crusading committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Still vested with federal authority and granted state and city police powers, Jamie will attempt to co-ordinate the drive against gangdom.

"BIG BUSINESS"

Henceforth this campaign will be an instance of "big business working behind the scenes." He admitted in an interview granted to International News Service.

"You won't hear about us until the results are turned up in the courts," he said. "We will work through the regularly established agencies, supplemented by a staff of our own investigators for special work."

"If there are any individual interests obstructing the progress of justice we will seek to ferret them out and remove them."

"In the past the law enforcement agencies have been hindered by too much publicity. Gangsters were given advance notice that the police were looking for them. From now on there will be a lid on this sort of thing, as far as possible."

Behind the secret six, which Jamie hopes will "sink out of sight" so far as the public is concerned, are the hundreds of members of the Association of Commerce who hope Chicago may be cleaned up in time for the world's fair in 1933.

QUIET MAN

Jamie, a quiet-spoken man with a reputation for fast action, said he could make no promises. He declined to estimate the time it would take to put the damper on gangland. However, he indicated his staff would not be hampered by any lack of funds.

"How about Al Capone?" Jamie was asked. "Some authorities must know his whereabouts. Why isn't he as public enemy No. 1, ever placed under arrest?"

"You wouldn't ask that if you knew Capone's system," the secret six chief replied, "but that's all I can say about it."

Jamie indicated his committee would work with police of other cities in warring on crime.

For the last five years an investigator for the prohibition department, and for eight years before that a department of justice operative, Jamie enters upon his new duties with an enviable record.

Last spring he was influential in uncovering the alleged nation-wide conspiracy to divert commercial alcohol, for which 155 individuals and 31 corporations are under indictment.

About two years ago he worked on the Williamson-co. (Ill.) scandals with the result that several officials of Herrin were convicted and the deadly feud between the Sheldon and Berger gangs was brought to an end.

More recently, Jamie produced evidence which resulted in the conviction of Lyle T. Wright, "boy sheriff" of Juntura-co. (Wia.)

With this background, Jamie is the hope of Chicago. He may be able to cleanse her civic robes.

AUTHORS GIVEN ADDED IMPETUS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Feminist authors, dramatists and musicians were revealed today in filing of the will of Roy L. Danks, 35, former New Haven business man. From the estate, valued at more than $100,000, annual awards will be the direction of New York newspaper editors will be made.

H. M'HENRY FOUND DEAD

Member of Old Circleville Family Dies Near Midnight Friday at Home.

Harry H. McHenry, 77, was found dead by his sister, Mrs. Charlotte Welch in his room at their home, 381 East Main-st, after midnight, Friday. Dr. D. V. Courtwright said he had been dead for several hours.

He was the only son of David and Margaret Bigger McHenry, natives of Plain City, Ohio. He was in the jewelry business with his father in this city for a number of years, in the room formerly occupied by the Circleville Herald and at one time operated a jewelry store, himself in Dresden, O.

He also assisted his father in the management of a small vineyard, across Hargus Creek, just north of the C. H. Smith Packing Co. They dealt in small fruit, grapes and strawberries, etc.

Besides his sister, Mrs. Welch, with whom he made his home, he is survived by another sister, Mrs. Sallie Hobart, Rayville, La., a niece, Mrs. Frances Hobart Green of Rayville, La., and a niece Miss Mary Welch, a teacher in the public schools of Callandonia, O., who had come to Columbus to attend the State Teachers' Meeting Friday and was spending the weekend at home.

Funeral arrangements in charge of Mader and Ebert have not been completed.

GRAND INSTALLS ELECTRIC SIGN

The Grand Theatre has purchased a large electric sign from the Sun Ray Sign Co. of Columbus and has it placed in operation on the corner of the Theatre building.

There are 148 small yellow and red bulbs on the travel border and 29 bulbs under the GRAND name that flashes showing the large name in white letters.

The sign gives the corner a nice appearance.

"What One Man Says"

PATRICK J. HURLEY
Secretary of War.

The American Red Cross occupies a unique position in the affairs of the world. In war it follows our soldiers to the front and ministers to their wants.

In time of disaster the Red Cross is first on the ground aiding suffering humanity. Fire sufferers in San Francisco, earthquake victims in Japan, and those whose earthly possessions were washed away by floods in the Mississippi Valley all attest the efficiency of that organization which knows no color, creed or boundary in aiding the stricken.

Such an organization, to carry on its necessary work, must have at its disposal ample and immediate funds. To secure these, it depends upon a large number of small contributions collected during the annual roll call.

I desire to avail myself of this opportunity to urge upon all patriotic citizens to answer the Red Cross roll call when the annual membership drive opens on Armistice Day.

DISSENSION TO WORRY VARGAS AS DICTATOR

Dispatches Censored But Reports Disclose Ill-Feeling In Ranks.

MILITIA ANGRY

Report Rio De Janeiro Suffers From Food Shortage.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 1.—While rigorously censored dispatches from Rio De Janeiro today told of the adulation being showered upon Dr. Getulio Vargas, provisional president of Brazil, following his arrival in the capital from the south, reports were current here that serious dissension within the ranks of the revolutionary leaders may endanger the peaceful progress of the new regime.

It was pointed out in well-informed circles here that there are wide differences of opinion among certain of the revolutionary leaders as to how the new government shall be constituted and that the military are likely to demand a stronger representation than Dr. Vargas was reported planning to give them.

FORM DICTATORSHIP
In an interview with newspapermen prior to the arrival of Dr. Vargas, General Juarez Tavora, youthful leader of the northern insurgents, declared that present plans for formation of a civil dictatorship backed by the army and navy.

Information reaching here, however, indicates that among the revolutionary leaders who have flocked into the capital are a number of military firebrands, who it was said may seek to demand a military government under General Tavora in place of the projected civil regime of Dr. Vargas.

If this is the case, not only Vargas but Tavora also would have to use all the influence at their command to enforce complete allegiance to a civil regime.

It was regarded as significant that Dr. Vargas is rushing virtually all his troops, numbering between 30,000 and 50,000 men, into the capital, although Rio De Janeiro was reported still to be suffering from a food shortage.

Immediately after the arrival of Dr. Vargas in the capital, a strenuous censorship was clapped down on all outgoing news dispatches.

WELL ENDANGERS PEACE OF CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 1.—An outlaw oil well out of control and hurling sixty thousand barrels of oil into the air daily at the city's edge continued to hold the state capital in danger of fire today.

Hardly a mile from the city's business district the No. 1, C. E. Stout oil well kept tossing out fountains of gas and crude oil while militiamen and city police and firemen maintained a close guard to prevent the oil-soaked buildings from catching fire.

The residential district nearest the well was occupied mostly by negroes. They were ordered to vacate their homes by the nine units of Oklahoma National Guardsmen. Six schools closed their doors yesterday.

Locomotives and automobiles have been barred from the vicinity of the spouting well for fear their fire boxes or ignition systems might touch off the fluid.

The well broke loose Thursday night when connections parted, presumably cut through by sand.

ARREST REDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Twelve Communists were held on disorderly and various charges today after they were accused of violating an injunction forbidding picketing a cafeteria.

Twenty-two reds, arrested earlier in the week for picketing the same eating place, were found guilty of disorderly conduct and were remanded to prison, pending sentence.

Marine Ace Will Fly Plane to Nicaragua

Lieut. Christian Schilt, one of the most brilliant of the U. S. Marines flyers, will fly a new tri-motor Ford plane to Nicaragua to replace one already in use at the United States base there. The Marine ace was recently decorated by the Government in recognition of outstanding service in Nicaragua.

BLAME POLICE FOR CONDITION

Chicago Grand Jury Claims Police and Crime in City Go Hand In Hand.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Chief Justice John McGoorty of the criminal court today was in possession of a report drawn up by the October grand jury in which both the state's attorney's office and the police department are severely criticized and held responsible for crime conditions.

The jury's report stated that the scandal in which a list of gangsters scheduled for immediate arrest was found in the possession of a Capone accomplice "confirmed beyond a reasonable doubt the general belief that exists an alliance between some members of the police department and leaders of organized crime."

Referring to the state's attorney's department the report charged that "too many minor cases are being given attention while the activities of those engaged in various forms of organized crime are being neglected if not actually protected."

LOCALS LOSE IN SINGING CONTEST

Carol Deis, lyric soprano, of Dayton, and Hubert Kochritz, baritone, of Cincinnati, are winners of the Southern Ohio state competition in the Fourth National Radio Audition, according to announcement made today by Ellis Snyder of Capital University, Chairman of the group which arranged the contest.

In competition with the champions from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Northern Ohio, and Wisconsin, they will sing in Chicago in November for the honor of representing the Midwest District in National finals to be sung in New York on Sunday evening, December 14th, during the Atwater Kent Hour.

Ellen Leist and Gerald Marion, from this city, took part in the southern Ohio finals.

PREDICT WILD ELECTION NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—An extra force of 1,800 men and 120 fire-fighting units will be used this year, it was announced today, to combat the annual bonfire epidemic on election night. New York's election Tuesday will be marked by one of the wildest celebrations in years, fire commissioners said.

RETURNED HOME

Miss Mary Armstrong of Laurelville, deputy county recorder, is recovering at her home from a tonsil operation performed Monday at the clinic of Dr. Larue in Columbus.

NEW MARSHAL LEADS FIGHT ON GANGSTERS

Chicago Hopefully Awaits Report of Work of Newly Selected Leader.

JAMIE IS NAMED

Results Is Only Report To Be Made, Man States.

BY W. F. PETERSON.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Afflicted with an alliance between crime and politics, under the onus of paying tribute to a gigantic liquor syndicate and to labor racketeers, and burdened with a blood stained past, Chicago is hopefully awaiting results from a new field marshal in its war against the underworld.

The new commander-in-chief is Alexander Jamie, a law enforcement veteran, who today began a furlough from his post of division chief of special prohibition agents and became chief investigator for the "Secret Six," the crusading committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Still vested with federal authority and granted state and city police powers, Jamie will attempt to co-ordinate the drive against gangdom.

"BIG BUSINESS"

Henceforth this campaign will be an instance of "big business working behind the scenes." He admitted in an interview granted to International News Service.

"You won't hear about us until the results are turned up in the courts," he said. "We will work through the regularly established agencies, supplemented by a staff of our own investigators for special work."

"If there are any individual interests obstructing the progress of justice we will seek to ferret them out and remove them."

"In the past the law enforcement agencies have been hindered by too much publicity. Gangsters were given advance notice that the police were looking for them. From now on there will be a lid on this sort of thing, as far as possible."

Behind the secret six, which Jamie hopes will "sink out of sight" so far as the public is concerned, are the hundreds of members of the Association of Commerce who hope Chicago may be cleaned up in time for the world's fair in 1933.

QUIET MAN

Jamie, a quiet-spoken man with a reputation for fast action, said he could make no promises. He declined to estimate the time it would take to put the damper on gangland. However, he indicated his staff would not be hampered by any lack of funds.

"How about Al Capone?" Jamie was asked. "Some authorities must know his whereabouts. Why isn't he, as public enemy No. 1, ever placed under arrest?"

"You wouldn't ask that if you knew Capone's system," the secret six chief replied, "but that's all I can say about it."

Jamie indicated his committee would work with police of other cities in warring on crime.

For the last five years an investigator for the prohibition department, and for eight years before that a department of justice operative, Jamie enters upon his new duties with an enviable record.

Last spring he was influential in uncovering the alleged nation-wide conspiracy to divert commercial alcohol, for which 155 individuals and 31 corporations are under indictment.

About two years ago he worked on the Williamson-co. (Ill.) scandals, with the result that several officials of Herrin were convicted and the deadly feud between the Sheldon and Birger gangs was brought to an end.

More recently, Jamie produced evidence which resulted in the conviction of Loyal T. Wright, "boy sheriff" of Juneau-co. (Wis.)

With this background, Jamie is the hope of Chicago. He may be able to cleanse her civic robes.

AUTHORS GIVEN ADDED IMPETUS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Foundations to encourage American authors, dramatists and musicians were revealed today in filing of the will of Roy L. Danks, 36, former New Haven business man. From the estate, valued at more than $1,000,000, annual awards under the direction of New York newspaper editors will be made.

DRYS FIGHT FOR PLACES IN CONGRESS

Anti-Saloon League Reports Show Much Cash Not Being Spent; Wets Active.

By William S. Neal
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Dry organizations are waging vigorous fights in a dozen states to hold their preponderant strength in Congress after the Nov. 4 election, it was disclosed today in expense statements on file with the clerk of the house.

The campaign outlays of the state anti-saloon league thus far reported, for the most part, are comparatively small.

Dry leaders explain this by saying the organizations are carrying on their usual activities, with a large part of their work voluntary, thus reducing expenses.

Various wet leaders, on the other hand, have advanced two explanations. They have charged that actual expenditures of the dries are concealed through a multitude of organizations and a division of activities among them.

They have declared too, that many of the financial backers of the dry organizations have deserted, and this has made it difficult for the dries to finance their political work.

The anti-Saloon League of America, according to its reports of receipts and expenditures from Jan. 1 to Oct. 24, shows receipts of $5,705, and expenditures of $3,915. The prohibition national committee received $5,757 during the year to date and spent $5,516.

Expenditures of state anti-saloon leagues, as reported under the corrupt practices act, include:

Nebraska, $344; Rhode Island, $25.75; Illinois, $1,588; Missouri, $582; Pennsylvania, $1,380; West Virginia, $565; Nebraska, $344; Indiana, $140; Ohio, $1,850 and New Jersey, $3,090.

Several other state organizations, which made previous reports, have thus far not submitted expense statements for the period from Sept. 1.

The wet organizations, on the other hand, are better financed now than they have been for years.

The recent report of the association against the prohibition amendment showed expenditures to Oct. 21 of $694,738.

There are six senatorial contests and approximately 50 house contests which may turn on the prohibition issue next Tuesday, according to statements of both wet and dry leaders.

The Circleville Gordon Tires will make their home debut Sunday afternoon at Mason's Field when they meet the fast Columbus West Side A. C. outfit.

The Tires have already shown their mettle on foreign fields and those fans who have had occasion to see them in action declare that the local aggregation is one of the fastest independent teams around Circleville for a long time.

West Side A. C. is one of the newly organized football clubs in Columbus and for the past few weeks has taken some of the best for a tumble.

The Tiresmen have taken on some new members since their last game, they are, Nothstine, Young, Reed, Maddux and Anderson, former Walnut-twp. and Williamsport satellites.

STEEL INDUSTRY TO MAKE REPEAT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 1.—Lack of promise, with further declines in scrap and in ingot output, is the immediate outlook for the iron and steel industry the Iron Age will say tomorrow in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade.

Reductions in old material prices have all been hastened by heavy melting scrap, the key grade, off $1 a ton at Philadelphia, 50c at Detroit and 25c at Pittsburgh and St. Louis. The Iron Age composite price for heavy melting steel, at $12.25 a gross ton, is at the lowest level since 1921.

To obtain further tonnage to offset losses in business from other directions steel producers are pressing the railroads to place orders for cars and locomotives. Such buying can be stimulated, it is said, if arrangements can be made to finance contracts to their full amounts.

Steel ingot production has reduced to 50 per cent of capacity, compared with 53 per cent a week ago. Iron and steel prices are still sensitive although demand is sluggish. Pig iron shipments are again falling off.

Orders for finished steel are of the hand to mouth variety. Galvanized sheets and wire nails are off $1 a ton.

The Iron Age composite prices for finished steel and pig iron are unchanged at 2135c a lb, and $16.29 a ton respectively.

PROHIBITION IS BIG QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Although scarcely mentioned in many localities, the barbed question of prohibition is the dominant issue in a large percentage of the congressional contests that will be decided by next week's election, a survey disclosed today.

The spread and growth of prohibition as a national political issue since 1928 has amazed and, to some extent, confounded the leadership of both major parties.

In five states both the Republican and Democratic platforms have declared for repeal of the 18th amendment—New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Wisconsin and Washington.

In six other states the Democrats have written repeal into their party platform—Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Illinois and Maryland. And in two of these states Illinois and Rhode Island, the Republicans have pledged themselves to abide by current referendums on repeal.

These states furnish 149 congressmen, or approximately one-third of the house membership.

As further evidence of the growth of the prohibition as a political issue, Henry H. Curran, director of the association against the prohibition amendment the senior wet organization of the country, said today that repeal and anti-repeal fights were being staged in 34 of the 48 states in the present campaign.

CAST IS NAMED FOR C. A. C. PLAY

From the amount of enthusiasm and laughter shown at rehearsals for "That's That" it certainly looks as though the C. A. C. has chosen a wot of a show. Anybody who misses "That's That" will be missing the fastest two hours of fun ever afforded by Circleville home talent. Rehearsals are in full swing the choruses eight in all, are picking up the intricate steps very quickly. As for the cast, it is one of the best ever assembled.

The following are the names and characters when they will portray:

Wilhe Hop, Paul Wallace, Kenneth Jones, masquerading as a life-guard, Frank Price; Martin Morris, chum of Kenneth's; Tom Drum; Mickey Sullivan of east side New York and elsewhere, Carl Wallace, society matron, Mildred Barthelmas; Elsie Reswick, her niece; Dorothy Clark; Eddie Dewey, a real estate man from the sticks; Charles Kirpatrick; John Neilson, a bottle king; Joe Lynch and Nanette Neilson his daughter, Kate Marion.

Tickets are now on sale with no charge for reservation for the show which will be staged two nights Nov. 13 and 14 at the Grand Theater.

LABOR STATES SIXTH OF U. S. TO FEEL NEED

Several Large Cities Report Employment Situation Is Worse Than Year Ago

By Pierce Miller
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—While the federal government continued today to mobilize all agencies throughout the country to prevent suffering this winter by providing jobs for the huge army of idle workers the American Federation of Labor in a summary of the situation issued a statement declaring one sixth of the population was threatened with "acute need from unemployment."

Although the federation's statement was far from painting a rosy picture confidence was expressed that if all groups join wholeheartedly in the campaign for jobs and relief unemployment may be largely conquered.

"We must visualize the danger ahead and face the problem," the federation statement said.

NAKE ESTIMATE
The government officially estimates the unemployed at 3,500,000. An increase of usual proportions would bring the number well over 5 million. Including the families depending on these men and women, over 20 million persons, or one sixth of our entire population, are threatened with acute need from unemployment this winter."

The federation said unemployment had not improved since Sept. and that trade union reports from 24 cities showed 21 per cent still out of work. This, however, was not a cause for discouragement as to the general business situation, it merely indicating that industrial activity has not increased more than usual at this season.

"But," it was pointed out, "The very large number out of work, on the threshold of winter, is cause for very serious concern."

Labor figures show that last winter unemployment increased 71 per cent from October to January, and the year before when conditions were "unusually favorable" there was an increase of 47 per cent in that period.

CLEVELAND WORSE
"Business men, welfare groups, government agencies, labor and all other groups," the federal warned, "must concentrate on measures to provide against unemployment in the next few months if we wish to avoid a similar increase."

In addition to those out of work, the statement declared millions more are employed on part time.

In the metal trades 23 per cent, and in other manufactures 29 per cent, and in clothing and textiles 41 per cent are working on a part time basis, it was estimated.

While 15 cities reported conditions better in October than in September, these reported the situation worse, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Paterson, N. J., and Seattle.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—There are only six books in existence worthy of being called literature according to Hugh Walpole, the novelist, who named Tolstoy's "War and Peace," Homer's "Iliad," Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," and the first volume of Keats' poetry.

HOME EDUCATION

Cultivation of Goodwill.

As a little girl, Jane Adams, seeing the want and misery of suffering humanity in the crowded tenement district of her city, longed for an opportunity to bring relief and comfort.

Serious sickness interfered with her ambition but she persisted and thought that by becoming a doctor, she might answer the need of call, but a return of ill-health forced her to give up her studies. Although for seven years she was unable to do a thing, she never gave up her plan.

At last, restored health permitted her to carry out her plan. She bought a house in one of the most crowded streets of Chicago. She furnished it artistically and did everything possible to make it home-like for the people of the neighborhood. Her purpose was expressed in the charter which she secured for the home known as the Hull House:—"To provide a center for a higher social and civil life; and to improve conditions in the industrial districts of Chicago."

Her heart ached for the lonely, despoiled, home-sick of other lands; from Hull House radiated a spirit of goodwill and friendliness. "To hand to our neighbors whatever of help we have gained ourselves" was her ideal. So successful has been that similar homes are fostered in many other cities and the name, Jane Adams, has become a household word.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

Rev. L. E. Young, Pastor

ELECTION SUNDAY

If our citizenship is altogether heaven and we have no interest or responsibility in the state under whose protection we live, then Election Day has no place in the church program.

But the Brethren Church at Pickaway and Logan-st. does not feel that way about the coming election. We feel our responsibility opportunity in regard to our ballot.

To-morrow is Election Sunday at our church. You will want to take part in this service.

Sunday School, 9:30 a. m., Charles Essick, Supt.

Distribution of ballots
Morning Worship 10:30, "Does God Care?", an Election Day Sermon.

Special Music.
Worship 7:30 p. m. by L. D. Young.

THE UNITED BRETHREN IN CHRIST

W. F. Rutherford, Pastor

Just as it is the nature of the sun to shine, so is the nature of God to Love. He loves every body just as the sun shines on the old dead snag and the blooming rose at the same time so God loves the saint and sinner. As the sun awakens nature each morning, so the Son of God will awaken in you those finer qualities to a noble service.

Our services open at 9:15, with a class for every age. The subject for the study period "From Weakness to Strength." Morning worship at 10:15. Subject, "The Voyage of Life." There are many ships in which we must sail in this voyage, come and sail with us in the study of stewardship.

Christian Endeavor at 6 p. m. subject, "Why Support the Eighteenth Amendment?"

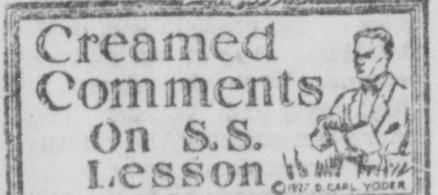

Evening service at 7; subject, "A Good Citizen." You are known in three ways, the way you vote, the way you spend your money and the way you worship God. To prostitute either of the privileges lessons your influence for good. If you are christian in one you will be christian in all.

At the evening service we will discuss the virtue of the vote.

CREAMED COMMENTS

The transformation of Peter's life was gradual; there was a rise and fall procedure with his almost until Pentecost; the few events of his life recorded in this lesson illustrate how a life of self-trust may be changed and made strong as trust in Christ increases.

V. 28. "And Jesus asked his disciples, who do men say that I am? What men think of Christ is the most vital question in the world today and more than anything else determines life.

V. 28. "And they told him saying, John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; but others, one of the prophets." The disciples did not express their own opinions but the opinions of others; this was disappointing to Christ.

V. 28. "And he asked them, but who say ye that I am? Peter answered and said unto him, thou art the Christ." Everything we do

Street's Change of Name
Glassmakers' street in New York was the early name of South William street. A glassmaker, Jan Meedees, was given an allotment of land on Manhattan island, and the business he carried on gave the name to South William street.

V. 25. "Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. They said therefore unto him, art thou also one of his disciples? He denied and said, I am not." It was a little maid who first asked the question and the weakness of Peter—simply failing to confess his Lord is shown; he was warming himself at a fire where he acted as a hail fellow well met. To join in a worldly company so as to erase all differences and become one of them is disloyalty and cowardice of which any Christian should be ashamed.

Religion means daily duty and not occasional ecstasies.

Christ measures our work by our ability.

Joyful worship overflows in deeds of love and helpfulness.

and say is the result of a decision. Here is a strong point in Peter—promptness in confessing his Lord.

There are many occasions in which a call for a confession is clear. Other points of strength seen here in Peter were definiteness—he did not say "if," there was courage, that such a statement would be at variance to the popular opinion and church rules faith completes itself in confession. There are no secret disciples of Christ; confessions are seen not only in words but deeds. How do you spend your Sabbath? That is one of the outstanding ways of open confessions.

V. 31. "Simon, Simon, behold, Satan asked to have you, that he might sift you as wheat." Jesus put a high estimate on Peter since he used the figure "wheat." He recognized forces of evil at work to undermine the good in Peter.

V. 32. "But I made supplication for thee, that thy faith fail not; and do thou, when once thou hast turned again, establish thy brethren." Jesus believed in prayer; the most important thing in the followers of Christ is a faith that will not fail. The faith that counts is the faith so well expressed as to cause others to be established in the right way of living.

V. 33. "And he said unto him, Lord, with thee, I am ready to go both to prison and the death." The weakness of over confidence and boasting caught Peter at a time when all went well. No one is able for all that is within; the power of God is needed every moment and only in God's hands is anyone secure.

V. 34. "And I said, I tell thee Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, until thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me." Jesus knows a life so thoroughly that he can clearly prophesy the future. This ought to make us very careful that our very thought life may be right.

V. 25. "Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. They said therefore unto him, art thou also one of his disciples? He denied and said, I am not." It was a little maid who first asked the question and the weakness of Peter—simply failing to confess his Lord is shown; he was warming himself at a fire where he acted as a hail fellow well met. DRYS FIGHT FOR PLACES IN CONGRESS

Anti-Saloon League Reports Show Much Cash Not Being Spent; Wets Active.

By William S. Neal
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Dry organizations are waging vigorous fights in a dozen states to hold their preponderant strength in Congress after the Nov. 4 election, it was disclosed today in expense statements on file with the clerk of the house.

The campaign outlays of the state anti-saloon league thus far reported, for the most part, are comparatively small. Dry leaders explain this by saying the organizations are carrying on their usual activities, with a large part of their work voluntary, thus reducing expenses. Various wet leaders, on the other hand, have advanced two explanations. They have charged that actual expenditures of the drys are concealed through a multitude of organizations and a division of activities among them. They have declared too, that many of the financial backers of the dry organizations have deserted, and this has made it difficult for the drys to finance their political work.

The anti-Saloon League of America, according to its reports of receipts and expenditures from Jan. 1 to Oct. 24, shows receipts of $5,705, and expenditures of $3,915. The prohibition national committee received $5,757 during the year to date and spent $5,516. Expenditures of state anti-saloon leagues, as reported under the corrupt practices act, include:

Nebraska, $344; Rhode Island, $25.75; Illinois, $1,588; Missouri, $582; Pennsylvania, $1,380; West Virginia, $565; Nebraska, $344; Indiana, $140; Ohio, $1,850 and New Jersey, $3,090.

Several other state organizations, which made previous reports, have thus far not submitted expense statements for the period from Sept. 1.

The wet organizations, on the other hand, are better financed now than they have been for years. The recent report of the association against the prohibition amendment showed expenditures to Oct. 21 of $694,738.

There are six senatorial contests and approximately 50 house contests which may turn on the prohibition issue next Tuesday, according to statements of both wet and dry leaders.

Artistic Manuscripts

Illustrated manuscripts are those whose texts are brightened and heightened by vignettes and otherwise decorated in colors or in gold and silver. Fifteen centuries before Christ the papyrus rolls of the Book of the Dead were illuminated with brilliantly colored scenes. Later, as writing became alphabetic, the important letters were illuminated.

West Side A. C. is one of the newly organized football clubs in Columbus and for the past few weeks has taken some of the best for a tumble.

The Tiresmen have taken on some new members since their last game, they are, Nothstine, Young, Reed, Maddux and Anderson, former Walnut-twp. and Williamsport satellites.

STEEL INDUSTRY TO MAKE REPORT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 1.—Lack of promise, with further declines in scrap and in ingot output, is the immediate outlook for the iron and steel industry the Iron Age will say tomorrow in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade. Reductions in old material prices have been general affecting virtually all items listed with heavy melting scrap, the key grade, off $1 a ton at Philadelphia, 50c at Detroit and 25c at Pittsburgh and St. Louis. The Iron Age composite price for heavy melting steel, at $12.25 a gross ton, is at the lowest level since 1921.

To obtain further tonnage to offset losses in business from other directions steel producers are pressing the railroads to place orders for cars and locomotives. Such buying can be stimulated, it is said, if arrangements can be made to finance contracts to their full amounts.

Steel ingot production has reduced to 50 per cent of capacity, compared with 53 per cent a week ago. Iron and steel prices are still sensitive, although demand is sluggish. Pig iron shipments are again falling off. Orders for finished steel are of the hand to mouth variety. Galvanized sheets and wire nails are off $1 a ton.

The Iron Age composite prices for finished steel and pig iron are unchanged at 2.135c a lb., and $16.29 a ton respectively.

PROHIBITION IS BIG QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Although scarcely mentioned in many localities, the barred question of prohibition is the dominant issue in a large percentage of the congressional contests that will be decided by next week's election, a survey disclosed today.

The spread and growth of prohibition as a national political issue since 1928 has amazed and, to some extent, confounded the leadership of both major parties.

In five states both the Republican and Democratic platforms have declared for repeal of the 18th amendment—New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Wisconsin and Washington.

In six other states the Democrats have written repeal into their party platform—Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Illinois and Maryland. And in two of these states Illinois and Rhode Island, the Republicans have pledged themselves to abide by current referendums on repeal.

These states furnish 149 congressmen, or approximately one-third of the house membership.

As further evidence of the growth of the prohibition as a political issue, Henry H. Curran, director of the association against the prohibition amendment, the senior wet organization of the country, said today that repeal and anti-repeal fights were being staged in 34 of the 48 states in the present campaign.

CAST IS NAMED FOR C. A. C. PLAY

From the amount of enthusiasm and laughter shown at rehearsals for "That's That" it certainly looks as though the C. A. C. has chosen a woe of a show. Anybody who misses "That's That" will be missing the fastest two hours of fun ever afforded by Circleville home talent. Rehearsals are in full swing, the choruses eight in all, are picking up the intricate steps very quickly. As for the cast, it is one of the best ever assembled.

The following are the names and characters which they will portray: Willie Hop, Paul Wallace; Kenneth Jones, masquerading as a life-guard, Frank Price; Martin Morris, chum of Kenneth's, Tom Drum; Mickey Sullivan of east side New York and elsewhere, Carl Wallace; Mamie Rimey, his sweetie, Esther Drum; Mrs. Archibald Suthweld, a society matron, Mildred Barthelmas; Eloise Reswick, her niece, Dorothy Clark; Eddie Dewey, a real estate man from the sticks, Charles Kirpatrick; John Neilson, a bottle king, Joe Lynch and Nanette Neilson, his daughter, Kate Marion.

Tickets are now on sale with no charge for reservation for the show which will be staged two nights, Nov. 13 and 14 at the Grand Theater.

LABOR STATES SIXTH OF U. S. TO FEEL NEED

Several Large Cities Report Employment Situation Is Worse Than Year Ago

By Pierce Miller
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—While the federal government continued today to mobilize all agencies throughout the country to prevent suffering this winter by providing jobs for the huge army of idle workers, the American Federation of Labor in a summary of the situation issued a statement declaring one sixth of the population was threatened with "acute need from unemployment."

Although the federation's statement was far from painting a rosy picture, confidence was expressed that if all groups join wholeheartedly in the campaign for jobs and relief, unemployment may be largely conquered.

"We must visualize the danger ahead and face the problem," the federation statement said.

MAKE ESTIMATE

"The government officially estimates the unemployed at 3,500,000. An increase of usual proportions would bring the number well over 5 million. Including the families depending on these men and women, over 20 million persons, or one sixth of our entire population, are threatened with acute need from unemployment this winter."

The federation said employment had not improved since Sept. and that trade union reports from 24 cities showed 21 per cent still out of work. This, however, was not a cause for discouragement as to the general business situation, it merely indicating that industrial activity has not increased more than usual at this season.

"But," it was pointed out, "The very large number out of work, on the threshold of winter, is cause for very serious concern."

Labor figures show that last winter unemployment increased 71 per cent from October to January, and the year before when conditions were "unusually favorable" there was an increase of 47 per cent in that period.

CLEVELAND WORSE

"Business men, welfare groups, government agencies, labor and all other groups," the federal warned, "must concentrate on measures to provide against unemployment in the next few months if we wish to avoid a similar increase."

In addition to those out of work, the statement declared millions more are employed on part time.

In the metal trades 23 per cent, and in other manufactures 29 per cent, and in clothing and textiles 41 per cent are working on a part time basis, it was estimated.

While 15 cities reported conditions better in October than in September, these reported the situation worse, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Paterson, N. J., and Seattle.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—There are only six books in existence worthy of being called literature, according to Hugh Walpole, the novelist, who named Tolstoy's "War and Peace," Homer's "Iliad," Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," and the first volume of Keats' poetry.

Wrote Famous Music

John Stafford Smith, who wrote the music to which "The Star-Spangled Banner" is sung, was born in 1750 at Gloucester, England, and died at London, September 3, 1836. He was an able organist, an efficient tenor singer, an excellent composer, and an accomplished antiquary. He was the author of "To Anacron in Heaven," a variation of which is the music used today in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Re-elect Our Congressman Mell G. Underwood

To the Men and Women of the Eleventh Congressional District,

Dear Friends:—

I am now serving as your Congressman, and asking for re-election. I appeal for your support upon my record. You have been kind to me in the past, and I am thankful to all my political friends who have so loyally supported me regardless of politics.

My aim and desire as your Representative in Congress, has been to serve faithfully all the people of my District. I have tried to vote and speak for the best interests of my constituents at all times.

In addition to my official duties in Washington, I have tried to render every personal service possible to my constituents. It has been one of my special duties to assist disabled war veterans of all wars, their widows and dependents in presenting their claims before the Veterans' Bureau and the Pension Department. Letters asking help and assistance in the transaction of official business are given prompt attention and answered immediately. Equal and careful consideration has been given to all.

I consider it an honor and privilege to represent the Eleventh District in Congress. I believe my experience in this important position will enable me to represent the District more efficiently.

Please remember that I am your Representative and your friend. If I can be of service to you or your friends at any time, do not hesitate to call upon me.

Thanking you for your vote and a kind word, I am,
Sincerely yours,

MELL G. UNDERWOOD.

At the Wheel

The animosity that exists between drivers of private and public vehicles is not without some underlying cause or causes. One of the fundamental causes is the fact that the driver of the public vehicle is inclined not to respect the rights of others.

The bill of indictment drawn by the public against bus and taxicab drivers and trolley motemen contains such counts as usurpation of a lion's share of the thoroughfare, intimidation of private operators by the bulk of the public conveyance, excessive speed and horns startling in their volume of sound, and ignoring of traffic signals and warnings. Operators of private vehicles also offend frequently in these respects, it is true, but in the case of those operating public vehicles it seems to the public that such driving has become a matter of policy. As much can be said in regard to the operation of large motor trucks.

These conditions are bound to cause accidents in growing numbers unless immediate reform can be had. Flagrant disregard of fundamental traffic rules will not only result in accidents but is bound to affect adversely the even and expeditious flow of traffic.

Without in the least condoning their apparent recklessness and lack of consideration for others, one can understand the impatience which expert operators of public conveyances show toward the many slow and timid car drivers they encounter on the highways. It is a fact that operation, which seems to be and is dangerous for the less expert, is safe for those wizards at the wheel who are usually found in control of buses and taxicabs. Their manner of operation gives no thrill to private operators equally skillful.

It was only a few years ago that the custom-bound were scoffing at the idea of an eight-hour working day. They were even skeptical of the passing of the 12-hour day.

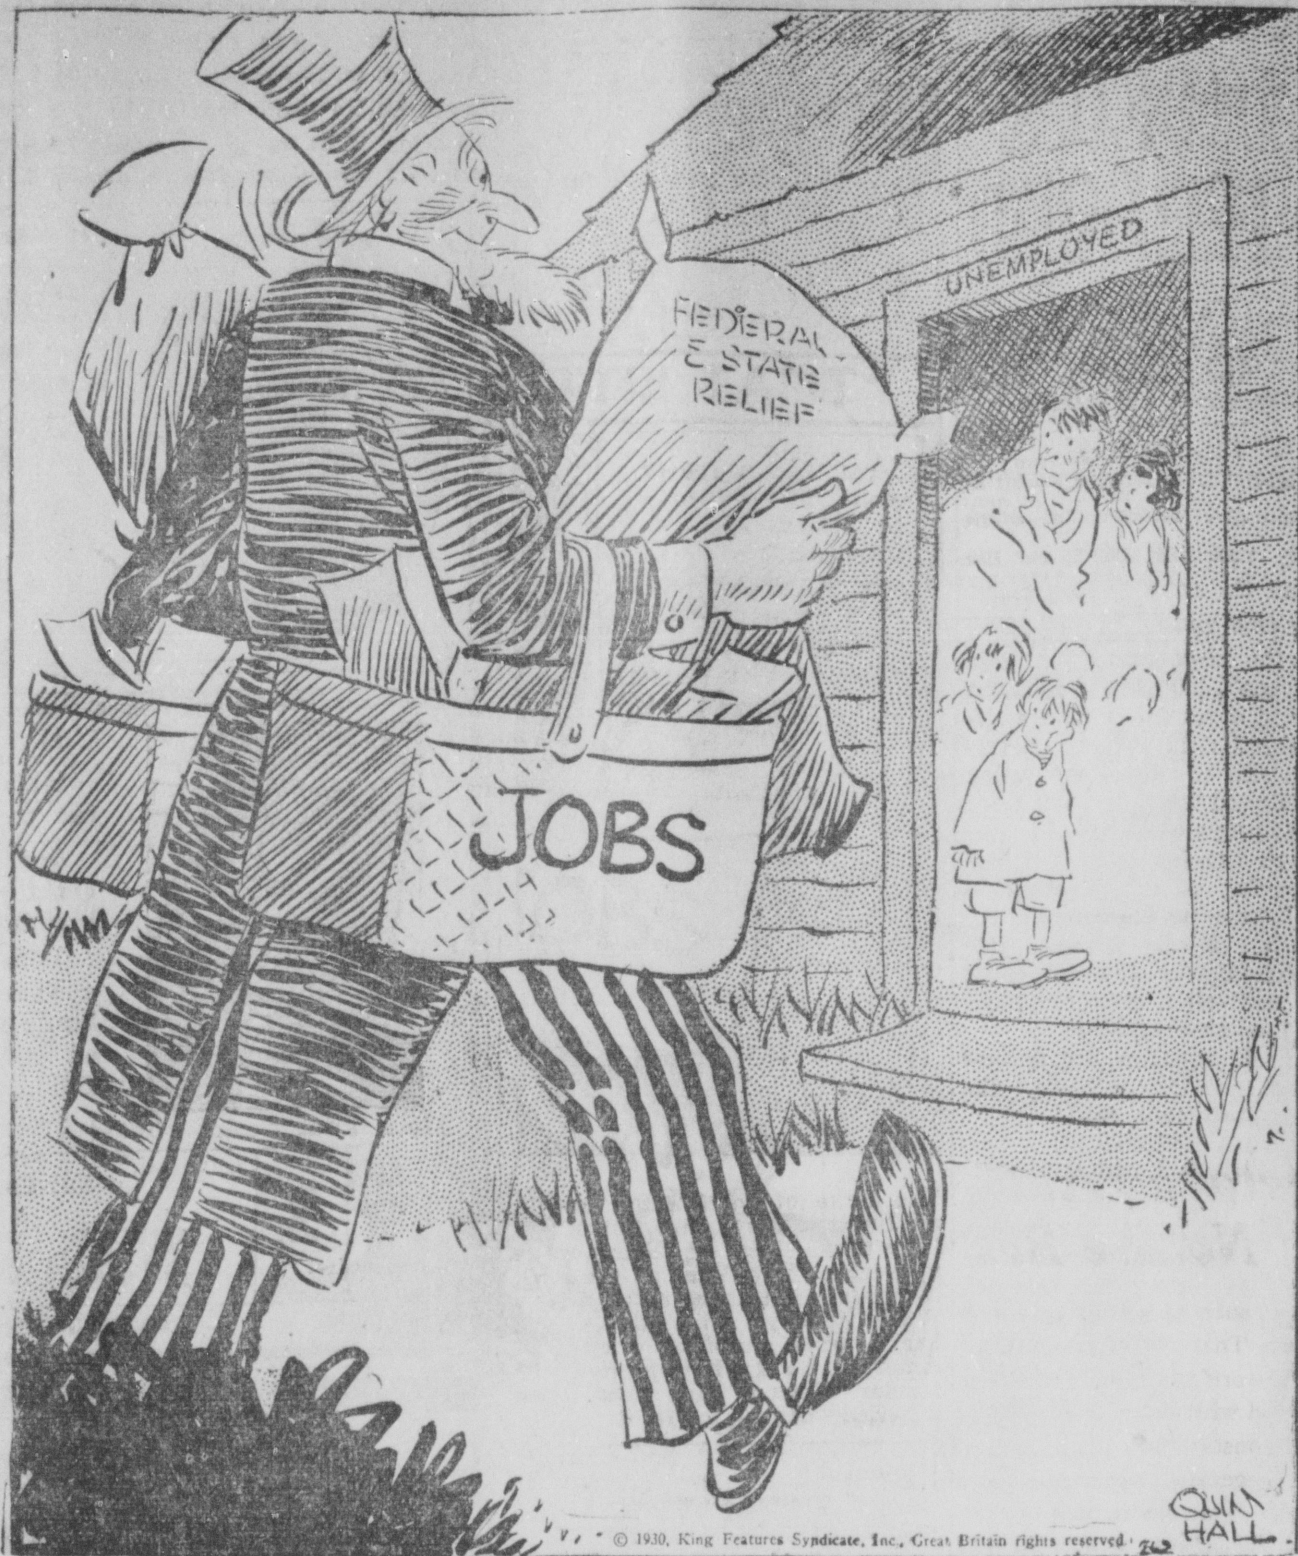

Today we find the eight-hour day nearly universal, the five-day working week in wide practice and a universal five-day week and six-hour day under serious discussion.

Two weeks hence 700 representatives of the seven labor organizations of the railroad industry in the United States and Canada will meet in Chicago to lay out a campaign for a six-hour day. It will be just such a campaign as won the eight-hour day 12 years ago.

That fight a dozen years ago was waged by men who believed eight hours a humane number of hours for toil. They wanted something for themselves. Now they are fighting for others, the six-hour working day being their answer to the employment problem which has long troubled the railroad industry. Rather than see many of their number in idleness, the railroad men would have the available work apportioned among them all.

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

Judy Likens Tris To Play-boy—Cannot Picture Him As Husband

CHAPTER XXVI.

JUDY found courage to glance over her shoulder, but the face was gone. Thin, driving rain beat against the window and behind this the sky was gray. Blank sky, rain, deserted deck—had the scarred face been there at all?

Such a startling thing to come and go so swiftly. While Tris drew a cigarette from the crumpled paper packet and fingered his lighter, the face had appeared and vanished. Or had she imagined it?

But there was no imagining the relentless searching of the narrowed eyes. The scar-faced man was watching Tris—watching her too. Fear wound her heart, chilled her lips beneath Tris Millet's kiss.

"You're not frightened, sweet? You want to be by yourself? You'll dine with me tonight? I want you to see Quebec with me first. The Frontenac is like a castle out of medieval France. Good-by, Judy—little Judy—"

He did not kiss her again—only folded her hands and held them against his heart, bending down, with the dark glory in his face.

She sat there a moment after he had gone, flushed and tremulous. Intuition—she had known she couldn't bear his caress now. So gentle he was, so exultant—the other Judy's soaring dreams never had imagined one like him.

Yet she felt detached, more remote from him than ever the other Judy had felt herself from the lover of her fancies. Perhaps the love would change this. It was all very puzzling, rather sad, some way.

One thing she knew—that the other Judy never would come to life again. The other Judy had been a pale little ghost, who came from nowhere, and took on the look of reality so the deeply buried longing for romance denied a prosaic schoolmarm might be fulfilled.

And now that longing had been fulfilled in fact, the ugly duckling had turned swan for a brief hour, and never again would the schoolmarm have the power to conjure the ghost Judy from her shadows. Real romance lay within her grasp. The adventures which had blazed through her imaginings were hers for the taking, and whether she did take them or not, there would be no more long, wild dreams.

She could not see herself taking what Tris offered. She could not see herself as his wife. Someone so playful with, to thrill her to the heart he was. Someone to laugh and be gay with when the sun shone. But living was more than this after all.

A quick, vivid picture of Lyall flashed across her vision. The big old weather-beaten house—maples and oaks flying gold and crimson banners in the crisp autumn air—sound of the school bell coming up the hill.

Nostalgia clutched her throat, sent tears brimming her eyes. Homely things—oh, they were part of you. You would have to love a great deal, a very great deal to let them go.

Judy went out to the deck, stood with the misty rain beating at her face. Gulls floated in the wake of the ship. They would have permitted the railroads to maintain better service with fewer men, which benefited everybody entirely due to the business de-spread their great wings, wheeling in wide circles, and then sink easily, gracefully. They were gorgeously free. And longly. They suggested something. Told some story she could not quite grasp. What were the gulls saying to her as they wheeled and floated, dim gray shapes in a dim, gray world?

She gave it up finally, went to find Peggy. And Peggy said she was losing her big girl.

"You're getting away from me, lamb."

"Oh, I've neglected you, darling. Didn't mean this, truly."

"Don't be serious. Mother's glad to have you a young thing instead of a maiden lady. Life can be rather beautiful."

"Father beautiful. Yes."

Quebec was a promontory rising from the mists. Quebec was a dream castle, thrusting stately spires into the sky. Quebec was a strip of lovely, faded old tapestry stretched in the rain.

Judy watched it approach with her elbows on the rail, Kit Camp at her side.

"That's Canada's watch dog on the high bluff, Judy. The Citadel has stood for more than two centuries. Once it was considered a mighty fortress, but the little black cannons are like toys today and even the steep walls are no defense."

"It's impressive. And the churches—there must be dozens of churches—"

"More than forty, besides convents and monasteries. Tomorrow I'm taking you out to St. Anne's."

She resented his calm way of assuming that she would jump at his invitation. "I don't know about tomorrow, Mr. Camp. You see, I'm planning this and that."

His hand closed on hers. Gleaning up, suddenly she saw his lips straighten, the glints in his eyes.

"This and that can wait, I've reason for wanting you tomorrow."

"Oh?" Clear and sharp as a little blade that fell between them. She struggled against resentment, brought out hotly. "Didn't imagine you a cave man! You're often like this."

"Only when it's necessary," he answered quietly. He drew his fingers along her wrist, flashed her his boyish grin. "Don't do this, Judy. You wish to come with me. Wouldn't ask you if I didn't know."

"Ask me? You order me! Tomorrow I'm taking you out to St. Anne's. Who do men think they must be masterful? It's—it's outrageous!"

He took her shoulders, turned her about so her lovely, furious face was raised to his, held her firmly. "Men are masterful with those they care for, little Judy."

She gave him a shocked, breathless stare—wrenched her eyes from the white, unsmiling face he turned down to her.

Then she went running along the deck to her cabin, threw herself upon the bed and lay there, very still.

Peggy Desiring Information About Tris Calls On Captain Marceau

Oh—this one—for her sake! The other too likely to break her heart. Yet—and yet better heartbreak than nothingness. To be as she was before shutting herself out from life—

Aloud she said, "There's another dress you haven't seen, lamb. All white. You're pale tonight. Just a little rouge?" Oh, let me fix it for you, Judy."

All unreal. A dream. Mustn't awake. Sink into a glow, feel like warm, melting beauty rising like a tide!

"No end to the things you got me, Mother. This dress is exquisite. Like a white rose shedding petals all around me."

"Time you were thinking of such things. Some way you've been a quite convincing prude."

"Oh?" Judy eyed her reflection in the mirror. The silver necklet did not fit in with the creamy tulle fluffing about her shoulders.

She loosened it, tried a string of pearl and crystal beads instead, the effect. She stood there, fingering the silver leaves, finally on some quick impulse pinned the necklet inside her dress.

"What's a 'puritan,' mother? I mean—of course I know the Puritans settled New England and were very this and that. Thought it a sin to smile, I suppose! Well, were they really so frozen? Not human at all?"

"I suspect that beneath the ice they were very human, my dear. We have scraps of history to prove it. Nature is this way. The loveliest flowers are just beneath the snow. Why?"

"Oh—nothing," Judy ran the powder puff over her neck and wondered why Peggy had said she needed rouge. "A Puritan's kiss might be quite—quite stimulating, then..." She gave a quick emittance, laughed, wound herself in the Spanish shawl she was to wear tonight, glanced down at the gold and green roses embroidered on the ivory crepe.

"Now—oh, don't look so startled! You've heard Betsy Rowe say crazy things. Wish me lots of excitement, like a dear."

"Of course, lamb. Be careful!" "Such a thing to say to me! Be careful yourself. The pinky, gray Mr. Tennant is a stepper, seems to me. She blew a kiss and was gone in a flurry of tulle and swinging fringe."

Peggy stared at the almond crepe the once precise Judy had tossed on the floor. "Puritan's kiss," she repeated. "The grave boy never would think of that. Who is Mr. Tristram Millett?"

After a time she went to the telephone, asked to be connected with the bridge.

"You know who it is, Cap'n Charley?"

His voice bellowed on the wire. "Not so many lovely ladies remember the old pilot. What's up, Peggy?"

"Information wanted. Do you know the folks aboard?"

"We have records. An excursion crowd is a mixed affair. 'You're a very old friend, Charley. Judy's found a young man, Mr. Millett.'"

"Ah!" He was businesslike all at once. "You're going out? Drop in on your way."

Appendicitis No Longer Feared

Marvelous Advance in Surgery in Last Quarter of a Century Has Taken the Dread from Operations.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D., U. S. Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

MANY advances have been made in surgery during the past twenty-five years. In no other way is this better shown than in the reduced mortality rate of appendicitis.

Appendicitis no longer excites the fear it formerly did. This is due in a large measure to the education both of the surgeon and of the lay public. We have learned to respect the disease and to make sure there is proper handling of it in every form.

It is interesting to note that appendicitis is rare in infants and in those over sixty years of age. It is common in any period beyond childhood, being more frequent in young and middle-aged people. It is more common in males than in females and occurs more frequently in the summer than in other seasons. It is a disease met often in warm countries.

Injury Dangerous Appendicitis is usually traced to a germ, called the "colon bacillus." It may be the result of other types of bacteria, but this is the common one. The colon bacilli are normal inhabitants of the appendix, and under normal conditions are harmless. It is when the appendix is bruised or injured that these germs are capable of causing an infection.

Recently it was shown by a great scientist that certain poisons which enter the circulation may have an affinity for a "specific action" on the appendix. Such poisons may come from an unsuspected focus in the body. This may be quite distant from the appendix, from the teeth for instance.

In some cases the disease begins suddenly, ushered in by sudden severe pain in the abdomen. In most cases there have been previous symptoms. Most important of these signs are constipation, distention, a general feeling of uneasiness and discomfort in the lower abdomen. Nausea is always present, with vomiting, which may occur as late as four or five hours after the onset of the pain.

Appendicitis as we have spoken of it here is commonly called "acute Appendicitis." It may require immediate surgical attention or the patient may recover under careful medical attention.

No case should be treated without the careful supervision of a physician. Remember that once a patient has had an attack of appendicitis, he is likely to suffer again if the appendix has not been removed.

Theatres

AT THE MET

In "A Lady Surrenders," special all-talking picture production of John Erskine's famous novel, "Sincerity," which comes to the Met Theatre Sunday, two famous Broadway stage stars, Genevieve Tobin and Rose Hobart, make their screen debut.

Miss Tobin, who plays a featured role in "A Lady Surrenders," was signed direct by Universal from her big Broadway hit, "Fifty Million Frenchmen," which followed a year of stardom in the name part in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" in London. Miss Tobin is an established stage star, one of her other biggest successes being "Polly Preferred."

AT THE GRAND

Jack Perrin and his horse Starlight head an excellent cast in "Romance of the West," which is now playing at the Grand Theatre. Outstanding among these players are Edna Marion, his leading lady, Tom London as the bully prizefighter, Henry Roquemore as his manager, Ben Corbett, giving more than his share of comedy relief, Edwin August, time-honored bad man of the screen turns in one of his excellent characterizations.

Calculating Life's Span
The extreme life span of the higher animals may be estimated with a fair degree of accuracy by multiplying by four or five the number of years which the young of the species require to reach maturity. For instance, suppose a species of wolf matures at three years. The greatest age reached by individuals of the species would be from twelve to fifteen years.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Male and Female "Mockers"
The bureau of biological survey says that there is no way of distinguishing the sexes of mockingbirds by the plumage, since it is identical in both sexes. It is possible to tell the male sexes apart by the songs of the adult bird, since the male is a better singer, and in the fact that the female sometimes does not sing at all.

WHO SUPPORT US

Everywhere we go poking our journalistic noses, we hear town-people, students, players, teachers, and coach saying kind words about 24 merchants of Circleville. Wednesday the Circleville Herald carried a page of advertisements of 23 other firms who urge the personal support of the Tiger team by the young and old of Roundtown. The Red and Black is pleased, more than pleased, to express its appreciation.

One of the first rules a member of the Red and Black football squad learns is, "Support those who support you." We have come to believe in the efficacy of this slogan. Let's let our actions speak louder than our words. Drop in on these merchants you know best, and tell them just how you feel about their support. Better still, call on the one's you don't know so well and get better acquainted with these old friends of the school. Best of all, when in need of merchandise that they sell, give them first chance with your patronage.

Let our motto be,
"We'll see you at:
Joseph's,
Moeller's,
Harden-Stevenson Co.,
Gordon Tire and Accessory Co.,
Circleville Lumber Co.,
Circleville Coca-Cola Bottling Works,

LET'S PRAISE
OUR GRIDDERS

After three long, lean years in the debit side of the gridiron ledger where one can find but little except "ye old fight" to editorialize about, we are at last freed from restraint. With the shackles burst by two consecutive victories, Red and Black says, "Three cheers for the 'fightenset' team a decade of local football has shown." And we agree, and then some!

Our formal recognition of achievement, Cercle d'Honneur et Succes, granted to illustrious graduates of C. H. S. is open to the squad of P. S. Herberholz. Follow that man, boys, and you'll each land a berth.

Honor and success to those worthy wearers of the Red and Black who so honorably have succeeded through what our Adkins calls "unfettered fortitude," close harmony as a team, and willingness to be guided by Mr. Herberholz who holds a heap of football tricks beneath a curly that!

Fellows, let's make it "Land Granville and Measure Marysville" and we'll declare Thanksgiving a regal holiday in C. H. S.

THANK YOU

"I, personally, want to thank all those who helped us at any time in constructing or managing the booth. In behalf of the senior class, I wish to say we are deeply indebted to all teachers and parents who donated their services," quoted Robert Rooney, president of the senior class. He stated "Over $50 was cleared through the operation of the Pumpkin Show booth last week."

The parents who helped in the booth are Mrs. Hoffman, and Reverend Ruhman. The teachers who helped are Misses Hitler and Watson, and Messrs. Watts, Eichenauer, Herberholz, Gephart and Fetherlin.

The class also thanks all those who patronized the senior booth

APOLLO DUO
ENTERTAINS

"The Apollo Duo", the first of a series of assembly programs arranged by officials of the school, was received with unusual applause and enthusiasm at its premiere showing in the high school auditorium, Wednesday afternoon at two p. m.

The Duo, who in real life is Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells, is one of the many entertaining programs sent out by the Interstate Bureau of Chicago, Ill. Mr. "Art" Wells is one of few bassoon players. Accompanied at the piano by his wife, he played "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" and "The Wedding of the Painted Dolls."

Mrs. Wells sang two comedy music sketches, "Black and White" and "The Girl Next Door", which kept the student body in an uproar.

A saxophone quartet in which Mr. Wells played an E flat and a B flat saxophone at the same time accompanied by his wife who played a saxophone and the piano, gave "The Rosary". Very few persons can play two of such instruments at the same time.

Among the other saxophone solos Mr. Wells played appeared the Indian love song, "By the Waters of Minnetonka".

However the banjo solos seemed to please the audience more than anything else. A most unusual feature was the "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," played by Mr. Wells on a tenor banjo.

Another feature of the program in which "Art" offered a selection on the banjo, throwing it over his head, under his legs, and twisting and turning it every way, was received by the students with much applause.

Mr. Wells also proved to be an inimitable teller of dialect stories when he recited "What a Swede Thought of Lindberg."

Elizabeth Roundhouse, former president, Tuesday, gave a speech on her viewpoint of the Girl Reserve code. It was decided to hold a joint meeting with the Hi-Y on Nov. 17.

All Reserves are to wear middie uniforms at future meetings.

FRESHMEN HAVE MASKED PARTY

Members of the freshman class all agreed the freshman party, held Thursday, was a huge success. Only the tireless work of the following committees made this possible:

Entertainment committee—Helen Melson.
Lunch committee—Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick, Martha Rader and Charlotte Moore.

Decoration committee—Fred Smith, Eddie Phebus, Harry Hosler, Betty Brown, and Margaret McCollister.

Clean-up committee—Harry Hosler, Dorothy Bartley, Billie Steele, Mary Helwegen, and Margaret Bowers.

Freshmen enjoyed the following games prepared by Helen Melson: Volley ball, theatrical stunts, and relay basketball.

This menu was served: Weiner sandwiches, doughnuts, pumpkin pie and sweet cider.

TALKS FEATURE
GUIDANCE WORK

Guidance classes have been having talks on interesting subjects the past week. There were no guidance classes Thursday because of the football game.

SENIOR GUIDANCE

Guidance in Mr. Fred Watt's class is in charge of the seniors led by Robert Rooney. The following talks have been given on Being Square, Copying Homework, Reynolds Greene, Copying in Tests and Examinations or from One's Neighbors or Books or Papers, Thomas Steyer, Prompting in Oral Recitations or in Blackboard Work, Charles Brown and Playing Unfairly in Games, John Hegde.

SOPHOMORE GUIDANCE

Tuesday's guidance in Miss Louise Kohlman's class was in charge of Group 5, led by John Mason. Talks were given on the following: Why Is Ohio Called the Buckeye State? Edgar McEneaney, The Great Seal of Ohio, Stanley Frank.

Eight Important Indian Chiefs: John Mason, Explanation of the saying that the Rainbow Comes Down in Ohio, John Laughlin, The Presidents Born in Ohio, John Mader, Local Film and the Dunmore Wars, Lincoln Mader.

CERCLE
ET SUCCES

Bonna Rader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Rader of Northridge, graduate of Ohio State university, member of Theta Upsilon sorority at Ohio State, graduate of College of Education, obtained B. S. degree.

Bonna and her two sisters, Merle and Erma were valedictorians of Circleville High School.

High In History
Ellen Clark, with 164 points, Matilda Davis, with 158 points, and Harold Holland with a total score of 153 points have been determined as ranking highest in seventh grade history classes of Corwin school.

The result was found after they had been given two standardized tests by Supervisor E. L. Daley.

GOOD SPELLERS

In Miss Margaret Brennan's fifth grade, 13 students attained 100 percent in spelling every day during the week of October 20 to 24. The following students were listed: Dorothy Newland, Grace Clark, Dorothy Winfough, Jean Theobald, Betty Lee Nickerson, Effie Wilson, William Pyle, James Price, James Bowsher, Everett Lutz, Earl Garner, Esther Jones and Ada Mae Garner.

Make Halloween Trinkets
During the past week pupils in Miss Marie Hamilton's higher special education have been making various Halloween projects including owls, witches and pumpkins.

Miss Lucy Seall substituted for Miss Hamilton, Wednesday and Thursday.

Fifth Has Masquerade

Fifth grade of High-st school held a masquerade party Wednesday afternoon in their home room. After several games were played the children withdrew to the rest-past consisting of sandwiches of various kinds, pickles, olives, and potato chips. Miss Gladys Peters was the teacher in charge.

FROSH SELECT COLORS. MOTTO

American Beauty roses, blue and gold, and "By Our Efforts We Hope To Rise" were the flower, color, and motto chosen at the meeting of the freshman class Tuesday.

American Beauty rose was chosen from the following list: violets, roses, sweet peas, daisies and snapdragons.

The following list of colors was submitted: green and white, blue and silver, blue and gray, scarlet and gray. Blue and silver, and scarlet and gray were eliminated as they are other class colors. Blue and gold was then chosen unanimously.

After these selections were made, the decision that all those wishing to attend the freshman party masked would be permitted to do so, adjourned the meeting.

MRS. CARTRIGHT
GIVES SPEECHES

Mrs. Mary Cartwright, a speaker from the State Department of Health and representative of the Y M C A. visited the high school on Monday accompanied by Mr. Ralph Garner, chairman of the Southwestern District of the Hi-Y.

Students were assembled at chapel where Mrs. Cartwright spoke on "Boys and Girls' Problems". She succeeded in holding the attention of the students to the very last. She proved to be serious as well as amusing. After the chapel program the boys were dismissed to go to physical education while Mrs. Cartwright led a discussion with the girls.

After this the girls were dismissed to go to physical education while Mrs. Cartwright talked to the boys.

In the afternoon she addressed the fifth, sixth and seventh grades at Corwin.

HI-Y AMENDS
ITS CONSTITUTION

A committee consisting of Pat Kirwin, chairman, Ned Dresbach and Medford Good was appointed to draw up a new constitution for the Hi-Y club at a meeting of the club Tuesday noon.

The old constitution needs many new amendments and many parts maybe excluded. Thus it was decided to construct a new one.

Principal Gephart explained the new membership plan to the boys. A discussion of the Guiding Gem Posters was held. All the boys seemed in favor of buying them.

PROFS. VISIT
CONVENTION

Attendance of Circleville teachers at the Central Ohio Teachers' Association held in Columbus, O. Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, was practically unanimous. The object of this convention is to find new ideas in school work, to learn methods, and test teaching equipment.

Most of the high school teachers attended the general session at Memorial Hall while most of the elementary teachers attended sessions at the Auditorium. Dr. F. E. Pearson gave an address, "The Spirit Element in Education" and Judge Camille Kelley, an address on "Values" at the Auditorium.

Dr. W. O. Thompson talked on "Educational Objectives" and Dr. C. E. Germaine, "Character Education" at Memorial Hall.

Teachers attending special meetings are:

JUNIORS WORK FOR NOV. PARTY

Members of the junior class, at a meeting held Tuesday, decided to have a party. President Hoffman announced that the date of the party would be known as soon as a sufficient number of students had paid thirty cents. admission charge.

As the junior class had charge of the booth on the football field at Thursday's game, the following were appointed to manage it: Zelma Betts, Donald Goeller, Marie Richey, Dorothy L. Glick Dudley Mills, and Gaylord Rose.

Each member of the class was to bring either something to sell in the booth or 15 cents.

NOTICE

Those members of freshman English classes studying Shakespeare would appreciate the return to the City Library of Vol. 1 of "The American Educator."

This book was thoughtlessly removed from its shelf without proper record being made. Will the present pupil custodian return it to Librarian Wilder?

Mr. Herberholz's business English class has been holding spelling contests between pupils from North End of the city and those of South End. The North End has won all but one contest which was tied.

HALLOWEEN PARTY
AT U. B. CHURCH

The old community House of the United Brethren Church never looked prettier than it did last evening where a merry crowd gathered to celebrate Halloween. The lights were veiled with owl heads and witches faces, and streamers of black and orange floated here and there. Pumpkin head lighted, corn stalks and leaves added to the decorations.

After the grand march prizes were awarded Miss Cora Hampshire, prettiest costume, Mrs. Laura Camp, most comic. The children winners were Charlotte Hegde, prettiest costume, Kenneth White, most comic.

An apple bobbing contest followed and a prize was won by Mary Alice Miller. Margaret Long won the prize in the contest for pinning the tale on the donkey.

The program for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Chas. McFadden. Miss Anna Miller played a medley of popular airs. A humorous reading "Uncle Ruben's Baptism" given by Mrs. Anna Rutherford. A vocal solo was sung by Miss Elizabeth Cady, followed by a dialogue "Johnny and the Teacher" given by Ruth and Margaret Long.

The closing number was a trio composed of Mrs. Ellen Hegde, Mrs. Bessie Long and Mrs. Fannie Greeno who sang old time songs. They were accompanied by Miss Nellie Denman.

Fortunes were told during a social hour and refreshments were served. The committee responsible for the success of the party was Mrs. Ellen Hegde, Mrs. Fannie Greeno and Blanche Ryan.

That lightning has a tendency to follow drafts is a common belief. Scientists say that such is not the case unless the air is filled with smoke or vapor, which would create a better conductor of electricity than the surrounding atmosphere.

SUPPORT THOSE WHO SUPPORT US

Everywhere we go poking our journalistic noses, we hear town-people, students, players, teachers, and coach saying kind words about 24 merchants of Circleville. Wednesday the Circleville Herald carried a page of advertisements of 23 other firms who urge the personal support of the Tiger team by the young and old of Roundtown. The Red and Black is pleased, more than pleased, to express its appreciation.

One of the first rules a member of the Red and Black football squad learns is, 'Support those who support you.' We have come to believe in the efficacy of this slogan. Let's let our actions speak louder than our words. Drop in on these merchants you know best and tell them just how you feel about their support. Better still, call on the one's you don't know so well and get better acquainted with these old friends of the school. Best of all, when in need of merchandise that they sell, give them first chance with your patronage.

Let our motto be,
"We'll see you at:
Joseph's,"
Moeller's,"
Harden-Stevenson Co."
Gordon Tire and Accessory Co."
Circleville Lumber Co."
Circleville Coca-Cola Bottling Works."
Circleville Tire and Repair Co."

Hamilton and Ryan," Circleville Publishing Co."

LET'S PRAISE OUR GRIDDERS

After three long, lean years in the debit side of the gridiron ledger where one can find but little except "ye old fight" to editorialize about, we are at last freed from restraint. With the shackles burst by two consecutive victories, Red and Black says, "Three cheers for the 'tightest' team a decade of local fall sport has shown." And we agree, and then some!

Our formal recognition of achievement, Cercle d'Honneur et Succes, granted to illustrious graduates of C. H. S. is open to the squad of P. S. Herberholz. Follow that man, boys, and you'll each land a berth.

Honor and success to those worthy wearers of the Red and Black who so honorably have succeeded through what our Adkins calls 'intestinal fortitude,' close harmony as a team, and willingness to be guided by Mr. Herberholz who holds a heap of football tricks beneath a curly that!

Fellows, let's make it 'Land Granville and Measure Marysville' and we'll declare Thanksgiving a regal holiday in C. H. S.

OUR SPORTSMEN RECEIVE HONORS

We have honor rolls for scholastic heroes. Here's ours for the gridiron greats:

THANK YOU

"I, personally, want to thank all those who helped us at any time in constructing or managing the booth. In behalf of the senior class, I wish to say we are deeply indebted to all teachers and parents who donated their services," quoted Robert Rooney, president of the senior class. He stated, "Over $50 was cleared through the operation of the Pumpkin Show booth last week."

The parents who helped in the booth are Mrs. Hoffman, and Reverend Ruhman. The teachers who helped are Misses Hitler and Watson, and Messrs. Watts, Eichenauer, Herberholz, Gephart and Fetherlin.

The class also thanks all those who patronized the senior booth.

APOLLO DUO ENTERTAINS

"The Apollo Duo", the first of a series of assembly programs arranged by officials of the school, was received with unusual applause and enthusiasm at its premier showing in the high school auditorium, Wednesday afternoon at two p. m.

The Duo, who in real life is Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells, is one of the many entertaining program sent out by the Interstate Bureau of Chicago, Ill. Mr. "Art" Wells is one of few bassoon players. Accompanied at the piano by his wife, he played "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" and "The Wedding of the Painted Dolls."

Mrs. Wells sang two comedy music sketches, "Black and White" and "The Girl Next Door", which kept the student body in an uproar.

A saxophone 'quartet' in which Mr. Wells played an E flat and a B flat saxophone at the same time accompanied by his wife who played a saxophone and the piano, gave "The Rosary". Very few persons can play two of such instruments at the same time.

Among the other saxophone solos Mr. Wells played appeared the Indian love son, "By the Waters of Minnetoka".

However the banjo solos seemed to please the audience more than anything else. A most unusual feature was the "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," played by Mr. Wells on a tenor banjo.

Another feature of the program in which "Art" offered a selection on the banjo, throwing it over his head, under his legs, and twisting and turning it every way, was received by the students with much applause.

Mr. Wells also proved to be an inimitable teller of dialect stories when he recited "What a Swede Thought of Lindberg."

Girl Reserves

Elizabeth Roundhouse, former president, Tuesday, gave a speech on her viewpoint of the Girl Reserve code. It was decided to hold a joint meeting with the Hi-Y on Nov. 17.

All Reserves are to wear middie uniforms at future meetings.

FRESHMEN HAVE MASKED PARTY

Members of the freshman class all agreed the freshman party, held Thursday, was a huge success. Only the tireless work of the following committees made this possible:

Entertainment committee—Helen Melson.

Lunch committee—Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick, Martha Rader and Charlotte Moore.

Decoration committee—Fred Smith, Eddie Phebus, Harry Hosler, Betty Brown, and Margaret McCollister.

Clean-up committee—Harry Hosler, Dorothy Bartley, Billie Bower, Mary Helwagen, and Margaret Bowers.

Freshmen enjoyed the following games prepared by Helen Melson: Volley ball, theatrical stunts, and relay basketball.

This menu was served: Wiener sandwiches, doughnuts, pumpkin pie and sweet cider.

TALKS FEATURE GUIDANCE WORK

Guidance classes have been having talks on interesting subjects the past week. There were no guidance classes Thursday because of the football game.

SENIOR GUIDANCE. Guidance in Mr. Fred Watt's class is in charge of the seniors led by Robert Rooney. The following talks have been given on Being Square; 'Copying Home-work'; 'Reynold Greene'; 'Copying in Tests and Examinations or from One's Neighbors or Books or Papers'; 'Thomas Stofor'; 'Prompting in Oral Recitations or in Black-board Work'; 'Charles Brown'; and 'Playing Unfairly in Games'; John Hegele.

SOPHOMORE GUIDANCE. Tuesday's guidance in Miss Louise Kuhlman's class was in charge of Group 8 led by John Mason. Talks were given on the following: 'Why Is Ohio Called the Buckeye State?' Edgar McClure; 'The Great Seal of Ohio'; Stanley Frank.

'Eight Important Indian Chiefs'; John Mason; 'Explanation of the saying that the Rainbow Comes Down in Ohio'; John Laughlin; 'The Presidents Born in Ohio'; John Mader; 'Logan Elm and the Dunmore Wars'; Lincoln Mader.

CERCLE D'HONNEUR ET SUCCES

Bonna Rader '27

Bonna Rader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Rader of Northridge, graduate of Ohio State university, member of Theta Upsilon sorority at Ohio State, graduate of College of Education, obtained B. S. degree.

Bonna and her two sisters, Merle and Erma were valedictorians of Circleville High School.

High In History

Ellen Clark, with 164 points, Matilda Davis, with 158 points, and Harold Holland, with a total score of 153 points have been determined as ranking highest in seventh grade history classes of Corwin school.

The result was found after they had been given two standardized tests by Supervisor E. L. Daley.

GOOD SPELLERS

In Miss Margaret Brennan's fifth grade, 13 students attained 100 percent in spelling every day during the week of October 20 to 24. The following students were listed: Dorothy Newland, Grace Clark, Dorothy Winfough, Jean Theobald, Betty Lee Nickerson, Effie Wilson, William Pyle, James Price, James Bowsher, Everett Lutz, Earl Garner, Esther Jones and Ada Mae Garner.

Make Hallowe'en Trinkets

During the past week pupils in Miss Marie Hamilton's higher special education have been making various Hallowe'en projects including owls, witches and pumpkins.

Miss Lucy Seall substituted for Miss Hamilton, Wednesday and Thursday.

Fifth Has Masquerade

Fifth grade of High-st school held a masquerade party Wednesday afternoon in their home room. After several games were played the children withdrew to the restaurant consisting of sandwiches of various kinds, pickles, olives, and potato chips. Miss Gladys Peters was the teacher in charge.

FROSH SELECT COLORS. MOTTO

American Beauty roses, blue and gold, and 'By Our Efforts We Hope To Rise' were the flower, color, and motto chosen at the meeting of the freshman class Tuesday.

American Beauty rose was chosen from the following list: violets, roses, sweet peas, daisies and snapdragons.

The following list of colors was submitted: green and white, blue and silver, blue and gray, scarlet and gray. Blue and silver, and scarlet and gray were eliminated as they are other class colors. Blue and gold was then chosen unanimously.

After these selections were made, the decision that all those wishing to attend the freshman party masked would be permitted to do so, adjourned the meeting.

MRS. CARTRIGHT GIVES SPEECHES

Mrs. Mary Cartright, a speaker from the State Department of Health and representative of the Y. M. C. A. visited the high school on Monday accompanied by Mr. Ralph Garner, chairman of the Southwestern District of the Hi-Y.

Students were assembled at chapel where Mrs. Cartright spoke on 'Boys and Girls' Problems'. She succeeded in holding the attention of the students to the very last. She proved to be serious as well as amusing. After the chapel program the boys were dismissed to go to physical education while Mrs. Cartright led a discussion with the girls.

After this the girls were dismissed to go to physical education while Mrs. Cartright talked to the boys.

In the afternoon she addressed the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades at Corwin.

HI-Y AMENDS ITS CONSTITUTION

A committee consisting of Pat Kirwin, chairman; Ned Dresbach, and Medford Good was appointed to draw up a new constitution for the Hi-Y club at a meeting of the club Tuesday noon.

The old constitution needs many new amendments and many parts maybe excluded. Thus it was decided to construct a new one.

Principal Gephart explained the new membership plan to the boys. A discussion of the Guiding Gem Posters was held. All the boys seemed in favor of buying them.

PROFS. VISIT CONVENTION

Attendance of Circleville teachers at the Central Ohio Teachers' Association held in Columbus, O., Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, was practically unanimous. The object of this convention is to find new ideas in school work, to learn methods, and test teaching equipment.

JUNIORS WORK FOR NOV. PARTY

Members of the junior class, at a meeting held Tuesday, decided to have a party. President Hoffman announced that the date of the party would be known as soon as a sufficient number of students had paid thirty cents, admission charge.

As the junior class had charge of the booth on the football field at Thursday's game, the following were appointed to manage it: Zelma Betts, Donald Goeller, Marie Richey, Dorothy L. Glick, Dudley Mills, and Gaylord Rose.

Each member of the class was to bring either something to sell in the booth or 15 cents.

NOTICE

Those members of freshman English classes studying Shakespeare would appreciate the return to the City Library of Vol. 1 of "The American Educator."

This book was thoughtlessly removed from its shelf without proper record being made. Will the present pupil custodian return it to Librarian Wilder?

Mr. Herberholz's business English class has been holding spelling contests between pupils from North End of the city and those of South End. The North End has won all but one contest which was tied.

Social Activities

Miss Helen Crist, Editor, Phone 581.
